MRS. ROOSEVELT HAS CHOSEN AN ELEGANT BALL DRESS.

Recent Hospitalities and Coming Ones -Out-of-Town Guests-Personals.

Mrs. Roosevelt's inaugural ball dress, judging from the elaborate notices printed yesterday, is an elaborate one. The bodice is long and pointed on Louis XV lines. It has a square neck and a tucker of blue chiffon. The latter material to the extent of yards and yards is used on the dress. The petticoat is of taffeta, the lower half covered with flouncings of chiffon and silk. The electric blue brocade of the dress proper has no trimming around the skirt. On the bodice a fall of old family lace is the only addition, the short sleeves being formed of tiny chiffon pleatings. The back of the skirt is long, measuring seventy-eight inches from the waist line to the hem, and the skirt has a very wide circu-

In Memoriam. OWN. In loving remembrance of my dear mother, LOUISA BROWN, who sweetly passed away two years ago today, February 27, 1903,

It is just two years ago today,
And I remember it well,
Though it seems to me like yesterday
When I saw my mother so dear.
Now she has left this sinful world And gone above with angels to rejoice, And they will welcome her with love At sounding of her sweet voice. BY HER DAUGHTER MARTHA.

HNSON. In memory of our daughter, EDMOND PARTHIMA JOHNSON, who died February 26, 1903, at 725 7th street southwest, Washington, D. C., aged six years and ten months.

D. C., aged six years and ten months.

How mournful seems in broken dreams,
The memory of the day
When icy death sealed the breath
Of your dear form of clay;
When pale, unmoved the face we loved,
The face we thought so fair,
And the hands lie cold where fervent hold
Once charmed away despair.
With Christ at last, life's breath past,
We'll meet our loved once more;
Where feet have trod the road to God
Not lost, but gone before,
FATHER, MOTHER AND BROTHER.

May God help me bear this trial bravely and live with the hope of a happy meeting. BY HER DEVOTED HUSBAND, HARRY D. WILLIAMS.

WILLIAMS. In sad but loving memory of my faithful wife, BLANCHE ESTELLE WILLIAMS, who entered into eternal rest February 27, 1904.
